

Eduard LLOBET Biography

I got a PhD in 1997 and then completed a one-year postdoc at the University of Warwick (UK). Since 2006, I have been the Head of the MINOS Research Group at Universitat Rovira i Virgili, working on nanomaterials and microsystems for gas sensing. From 2010 to 2014 I was the Director of the Centre for Research in Materials Engineering and Micro / Nano Systems, a centre that brings together researchers in physics, chemistry, materials, nanoscience and microsystems. I am President of the Spanish Network of Microsystems and Nanotechnology (IBERNAM) and vice-president of the IEEE Spanish Sensor Chapter. I have co-authored over 200 peer-reviewed journal papers and lead over 30 regional, national and international projects. Founder of the spinoff Green Smart Data. Recipient of the ICREA Academia award in 2012 and 2018.
